

INT. DUMPLING RESTAURANT - DAY

SUE, DANIKA, FIONA, WENDY, and HILLARY raise porcelain shot glasses of Japanese sake together in a toast.

ALL

Cheers!

All the women drink.

DANIKA

So, tell us everything.

Both FIONA and WENDY start giggling.

WENDY

Okay, so, we get off the plane.

FIONA

Oh my god nooo...

WENDY

And Fiona, Fiona's been learning some Spanish in preparation for the trip, so, she's leading the way, very confident, pointing out signs and saying, "This is what this says," and "This is what this says," and we end up walking towards these two police officers who are standing in front of a door, and they hold up their hands up and say, in English, "Stop. Ladies, where you going?"

FIONA

So, I had read something wrong.
And one of the police officers asked why I hadn't just followed the crowds. He was right, so, I was embarrassed, and I wanted to tell him I was embarrassed, but I couldn't remember what the word
for embarrassed was, so I said...
"Lo siento. Estoy embarazada," and...

WENDY

They start laughing. Doubled over.
So, she asks them, what's so funny? And they say, "Lady, embarazada means pregnant."

All the women laugh.

WENDY (CONT.)

I'm lost because I'm pregnant.
Like, as if.

HILLARY

It's so good you two can joke about things like that. Like, with Ryan, forget it. I crack a joke about him, and three hours later he's like, "I want to talk about what you said at lunch. Do you really think that way about me?"

WENDY

That's men for you. Small egos.

DANIKA

But you're still getting married, right?

HILLARY

Well, it's not all bad. Steady corporate job. Big paycheque. You could do worse.

FIONA

Is it seriously going to be before
Sue gets married?

WENDY

Yeah, Sue, what's happening with you and Reed?

SUE

Well, you know, after leaving Houston, adjusting to the new job, you know, there's a lot of adjusting to do.

HILLARY

How is the new job, Sue? You haven't really talked about it yet.

WENDY

She couldn't really talk about her old job, either. But I'd like to know what made you resign.

SUE

Can't talk about that.

WENDY

But it's just NASA, not like,
S.H.I.E.L.D.

DANIKA

Aw, leave her alone, Wendy.

As the conversation continues, SUE's phone BUZZES. There's a text from someone named Fiancé, followed by a heart emoji. It reads, "Code: 4." There is a brief ellipse as the sender texts, and the next message reads, "It's time." SUE looks up and looks around the restaurant. It's crowded.

SUE

I've got to use the bathroom.

SUE gets up and enters the bathroom. She looks at herself in the mirror for a moment, takes a deep breath, and becomes invisible.

SUE (CON'T)

Oh, wow.

The bathroom door opens on its own. Invisible, SUE makes her way through the restaurant. WAITER 1 bumps into her, dropping a tray of dumplings and falling back. WAITER 2 runs up to WAITER 1 and kneels beside him.

WAITER 2

What happened?

WAITER 1

I felt like I bumped into someone but... but I don't see anyone.

SUE

(Whispers)

Sorry.

The door to the restaurant opens and closes. SUE makes her way down the street. A DRUNK bumps into her and stumbles. After looking around for a moment, he walks off. SUE becomes visible again. She hails a taxi.